Towards an ASEAN taxonomy

The Green Finance Industry Taskforce (GFIT), an industry-led initiative, has developed a document 'Identifying a Green Taxonomy and Relevant Standards for Singapore and ASEAN', which discusses the merits of a taxonomy for Singapore-based financial institutions, with particular relevance to those active across ASEAN. It sets out a basic approach to a taxonomy and identifies economic sectors important to Singapore and ASEAN, which would particularly benefit from such classification, and poses questions for a follow-up. Fair Finance Asia (FFA) and World Benchmarking Alliance (WBA), together, provided feedback on the document to support in the potential development of a Singaporean taxonomy, with particular reference to ASEAN.

Banking on women's rights and opportunities

The dialogue, 'Banking on women's empowerment in the ASEAN agricultural sector', organized by Fair Finance Asia together with GRAISEA and Grow Asia, brought together leaders from the private, public and civil society sectors to discuss about the existing gaps in enabling capital flows for women's empowerment in ASEAN's agriculture sector; the smart solutions and collaborative approaches to mitigate these challenges; and the important next steps to support women's empowerment in agricultural value chains.

To commemorate the International Women's Day 2021, Fair Finance Asia coordinated a regional social media campaign to ensure that women's voices and rights are heard and integrated in the decision-making by financial institutions.

- Fair Finance India wrote a blog highlighting corporate accountability
- ResponsiBank Indonesia conducted a photography competition on "Women's voices for Equality and Sustainable Finance"
- Fair Finance Philippines developed a video and a number of social media posts highlighting the issues of women in agriculture through a portrait of a woman farmer in the Philippines
- Fair Finance Guide Japan (FFGJ) highlighted the gender scores of Japanese financial institutions from the latest policy assessment.

Spotlight: Made in Japan

Between February and March 2021, FFGJ published 3 case studies

The study - 'Mineral Supply Chain Due Diligence for a Just Transition against the Climate Crisis' - underscores the situation in two mines (a nickel mine in the Philippines and a copper mine in Chile), both producing minerals needed for a low-carbon energy transition, and operating under questionable practices enabled by Japanese financial institutions. <https://cutt.ly/CcKKTnu>

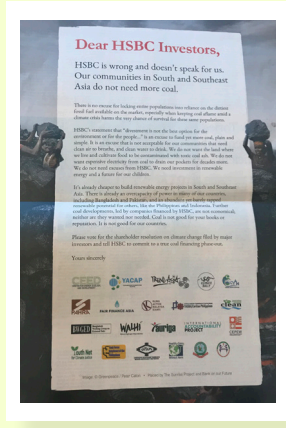

The study - 'Relationship between "Conflict Palm Oil" and Japanese financial institutions' - highlighted how Japanese banks enable palm oil businesses that destroy Indonesia's National Park and neglect the rights of its indigenous populations. <https://cutt.ly/mcKVis6>

The study - 'Undisclosed voting results of foreign stocks' - revealed that Japanese investors often do not disclose voting results for foreign shares. Read: <https://cutt.ly/AckVbT1>

Amplifying civil society voice

- Fair Finance Philippines calls for the defunding of the Jalaur Dam and ask the Export-Import Bank of South Korea to stand with the Tumandok people! See petition: <https://www.change.org/DefundJalaurDam>.
- 29 CSOs from 12 countries submitted a letter to Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) Bond underwriters and Bondholders, requesting them to urge JICA to stop funding coal projects in Bangladesh and Indonesia.
- New report, which was developed by BankTrack and other CSOs and endorsed by 300+ organizations including Fair Finance Asia, shows that MUFG is Asia's worst funder of fracking, tar sands, and fossil fuels since Paris Agreement.
- Environmental NGOs including JACSES (FFA coalition lead in Japan), filed climate resolution on MUFG, calling on the bank to adopt and disclose a plan to align its financing and investments with the Paris Agreement.
- Ahead of the US-Japan Summit, NGOs from the US and Japan, including JACSES, released a joint statement to urge the two countries to end public support for fossil fuel projects, including overseas coal projects.
- HSBC has agreed to phase out coal funding, and committed to set a strategy & targets to align all its financing with the goals of the Paris Agreement. This is a massive win for shareholder activism, and a direct result of CSOs, including FFA and other Asian partners, coming together.
- FFA and country partners widely shared the results from the Global Coal Exit List (GCEL) 2020 (<https://coalexit.org/>) Finance Research as published by Urgewald, which pointed out the full list of global coal financiers. The research highlighted that 336 Asian banks channeled US$ 708 billion to 223 companies on the GCEL from Oct'18 -Oct'20.
